

Rosalyn Adekunle

Rosalyn has a passion for inspiring others to be the best reflection of self. Her background is in training and development. She gets excited when the “light bulb” turns on in a person’s face when they learn or experience something new and exciting! That light shines brightly whether you are a newborn, or a person in the twilight of life.

Rosalyn is a retired Benefits and Learning Consultant. Writing, speaking, facilitation and training are among her passions. Rosalyn has used her skills internationally. She is on the board of the non-profit, American Nystagmus Network (ANN), a support group for those with this eye condition and for professionals associated with the condition. She is also the author of a book series titled “Patricia’s Story”. Rosalyn is married with two children and three grandchildren. She lives in the San Francisco Bay Area.
